

Curriculum Vitae

	Name (First Name / Middle Name / Last Name)	Fernando Magro
	Title (Prof. Dr., etc.)	Professor
	Affiliation	Faculty of Medicine, University of Porto, Portugal (FMUP); São João University Hospital Center, Porto, Portugal (CHUSJ); Portuguese IBD Study Group (GEDII)
	Country	Portugal
	E-mail	fm@med.up.pt

Educational Background

Professor Fernando Magro's degree in Medicine was awarded by Faculty of Medicine of Porto University (FMUP) in 1992 and he became a specialist in Gastroenterology in 1998. In 2007, he earned a doctorate degree in Pharmacology, became a specialist in Clinical Pharmacology by 2017 and in 2018 earned his tenure in "Experimental and Clinical Pharmacology and Toxicology" at FMUP.

Professional Career

Professor Fernando Magro is a consultant in Gastroenterology and Director of the Clinical Pharmacology Unit, at the São João University Hospital in Porto, Portugal.

He's a founder, board member, and research head of the Portuguese IBD Study Group (GEDII).

He's a full professor at FMUP, involved in two course units of the Masters in Medicine academic program and supervises or co-supervises Master and PhD students. Internationally, he is the current President of the European Crohn's and Colitis Organization (ECCO). He also serves as a member of the International Organization for the Study of Inflammatory Bowel Disease (IOIBD).

Research Field

Inflammatory Bowel Disease

Main Scientific Publications

Prof. Magro has published over 400 manuscripts and has more than 23,000 citations.